John Eric Higgins, Esq.

John Eric Higgins, born in Charleston, South Carolina, was a maternal grandson of the late John William Jennings, one of Albany's earliest Black attorneys and one of the first to integrate the Pine Hills residential neighborhood in Albany.

John's family moved to Albany and he attended the Albany Academy for Boys, where he was captain of the Varsity Football team. After graduating in 1979, he attended Hamilton College, playing D-III football all four years and receiving a BA in English in 1983. John then attended Albany Law School, where he became licensed to practice law in 1989.

In 1996, John married Katja Cecchetti Higgins, of Mogliano, Veneto, Italy. They lived in Albany, New York, raising two daughters, Jasmine and Isabella.

John began his professional work as labor lawyer soon after passing the New York State Bar Exam in 1990, first with Bond, Schoeneck and King; followed by Cusick, Hacker and Murphy; Nixon Peabody and ultimately Jackson Lewis. He practiced management-side labor law for 25 years and loved every year of it. John was an expert in discrimination law and received several awards for his passionate litigation skills, including Best Lawyer: Albany Labor Lawyer of the year (2015), and most recently Best Lawyers in America: Employment Law–Management, Labor Law–Management and Litigation-Labor and Employment (2018).

John also participated in the Albany County Bar Association; American Bar Association; National Bar Association; Capital District Trial Lawyers Association; New York State Bar Association, as Management Co-chair of the Labor and Employment Section's ADR Committee and Co-chair of the Committee on Minorities in the Profession. He was also President of the Capital District Black & Hispanic Bar Association from 2004 to 2009.

His service, talent and dedication to the legal profession were boundless as was his love for helping clients and colleagues statewide. He passed away unexpectedly in 2017 and in his honor and memory the New York State Bar Association Committee on Diversity and Inclusion has renamed its signature recognition award as the John E. Higgins, Esq. Diversity Trailblazer Award.
